Raleigh Public Record's annual voter guide profiling the candidates and analyzing the issues.

Our reporters have spent months interviewing candidates and dissecting issues to bring you the most comprehensive guide to voting in Raleigh. We have analysis on the transportation and schools bonds, legislative changes to elections, and we profiled almost every candidate running for Raleigh City Council and the Wake County Board of Education.

Raleigh Public Record staff spoke to almost every candidate running for Raleigh City Council and the Wake County Board of Education. We asked candidates the same set of questions, transcribed their answers and cut the transcriptions down to fit the space in this guide. Every candidate received an equal opportunity to participate. During our conversations with candidates, each was given the same opportunity to provide thoughtful answers to issues facing the city and Wake County schools. No candidate received the questions ahead of time. We hope these profiles provide you, the voter, with the information you need to make informed decisions this fall.

IN CASE YOU MISSED IT

The State of Parking in Downtown Raleigh

Parking in downtown Raleigh is a source of constant questions, along with some complaints. While most downtown Raleigh residents and visitors have grown accustomed to paying for public parking, some remain confused about where to find it and how it works.

Council Roundup: Glenwood Pedestrian Bridge Approved

Raleigh City Council members Tuesday approved a pedestrian bridge across Glenwood Avenue at Colbreck Valley mall, along with a new development plan for the traffic-glazed intersection. As part of a deal to build a mixed-use development on Charles Drive near Colbreck mall, the developer offered to build the pedestrian bridge to open one of the busiest sections of road in the city, Glenwood Avenue just north of the I-440 intersection.
